

Paris Fears Birds Will Leave City

Trees Kept for Homes of Warblers—No Nooks in Modern Buildings

Paris.—Steamship, railway and traveler are not the only kinds of tourists that Paris wishes to attract and hold. Along with the campaign which has been instituted to promote "tourism" in France there is being conducted a campaign to make birds feel at home in the capital, and to prevent them from yielding to the impulse to leave the city for the country, an impulse which appears almost as strong as that which has been drawing people from the country to the city.

It happens that still another campaign is being conducted to prevent the deforestation, or debilitation of France, and the bird lovers have coined the word debilitation (from debile, the French word meaning "bird") to describe the tendency which they wish to overcome in Paris. In fact, the two things usually go together, and the friends of birds are keen on keeping as many trees standing in the city as possible in order to provide leafy homes for the warblers. The music of winged songsters is highly esteemed, and it is significant that an ornithologist of note, M. Berlioz, has inherited the name of a great composer.

The modern school of architects came in for a certain share of the blame for the "debilitation" of Paris, until one of their leaders, M. Mallet-Stevens, gave convincing proof of their innocence. It was said that the newer types of buildings, being designed on strictly straight lines, did not afford the convenient nooks and corners for nests which birds used to find in abundance in the older houses. M. Mallet-Stevens has proved his devotion to birds by pointing out that there is no better place than a "modern" terraced roof in which to make friends with the birds. He keeps a meal spread for them on the roof of his house, and there is always a bath ready for them in his roof garden. He has even designed a special type of bird house or shelter which is admirably adapted, both artistically and from the practical viewpoint, to the more modern type of city dwelling.

Crop Information Service Proposed

Experts Would Be Maintained In all the Countries of the World

Ottawa.—Creation of a world-wide commercial intelligence service to be used in collecting expert crop and market information on all lines of agricultural products was discussed here recently by M. H. Lloyd, assistant secretary of the Empire Marketing Board, and Dr. J. H. Grisdale, Deputy Minister of Agriculture and Canadian representative on the executive council of the Imperial Agricultural Bureau, a sub-committee of the board.

Mr. Lloyd, who is touring Canada in the board's interests, admitted that the creation of such a corps and the dissemination of timely and expert knowledge has been a matter of consideration by the Empire board for some time. It might be discussed, he said, at the forthcoming Empire economic conference. Expert agriculturists, schooled in the collection of marketing and crop conditions would be maintained in practically all countries of the world, if the plan were set in operation. Their reports would be collected in one central depot and from there distributed all over the Empire.

Such a scheme, Mr. Lloyd believed, would be of great assistance to the Canadian wheat pool and other co-operative marketing organizations. The world's marketing and crop conditions could be gauged quite accurately and the dissemination of this information would be of great value to agriculturists all over the Empire. He will visit Toronto, Winnipeg, Regina and further west.

The Birthright of Every Girl.

Dull eyes mean misery and weakness—sure sign of a bloodless condition. Anemic girls and women have dull, heavy eyes with dark lines underneath. The bright-eyed girl or woman is always happy and well. There is one way to make the eyes bright—to bring the glow of health to

NO PENSION

(By a Soldier Dad's Daughter)
My Soldier Dad went to the war. Did his bit; maybe more. His share of wounds he got double. But no pension he got for his trouble. While working hard at shovel and pick. Which was the only work after the war he could get. He tried and tried as best he could. To see if to give him a pension they would. From being gassed in the war so bad he fell ill. And, while lying on his death-bed so still. He'd think of how for a pension he'd tried; Without getting one, my Soldier Dad died. He had something to be proud of, if no pension he got. That's his medals and souvenirs of the wars he's fought; Proud to know he did his bit, and I'm proud what's more. To know my Dad was a soldier right to the core.

Trail Riding in the Canadian Rockies

Of all things fascinating in this fascinating old world, what is more so than a trail? A path beaten by unknown feet into the heart of the unknown! A summons, an allurements, and a mystery! Who can resist its call or has not desired to follow it, on and on to the end?

Heaven alone knows how many hearts since the time of Adam have hungered for it or how many poets, interpreting the longings of humanity, have put that hunger into words. Columbus fell under its beckoning spell. Drake knew it. Champlain knew it. Livingstone knew it. Kipling sings it in "The Long Trail" and "The Gypsy Trail." Service voiced it in a dozen of his songs of a Cheek and a Sourdough. Thousands of soldiers chanted it on the roads of France.

"There's a long, long trail a-winding, To the land of my dreams, . . ."

One part of Canada in particular is threaded with the world's most fascinating trails, to be followed through the world's most lovely scenery, day after day, each to its ultimate termination. That is the country around Banff and Lake Louise in the heart of the Canadian Rockies—a veritable land of Heart's Desire for the man or woman with the love of nature and the open air heart, where every trail leads to beauty, peace and radiant health.

It was the vision of John Murray Gibbon, that, as it were, co-ordinated this general but vague desire of humanity for exploration of unknown paths through little visited country. Mr. Gibbon organized in the summer of 1921 the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies which has since become a world-wide body with a membership running close to a thousand names. It was given a constitution and by-laws, and initial qualification consists of an established record of not less than fifty miles ridden on horseback over trails in the Canadian Rockies. This record must be approved by the membership committee, and entitles the holder of the record to a bronze medal. Members holding records of 100 miles are given a silver medal, of 200 miles a gold medal, of 300 miles a gold medal with enamel border, and of 500 miles, a medal of full color enamel. On January 15, 1930, there were 112 members holding the 2500 miles medal; on October 15, 1934 there were only 52 members and this shows the growth of the Order of Trail Riders in the six years since its formation.

The idea was born one rainy day in the summer of 1924 on a bed of white heather under a tent in the Canadian Rockies about 7,000 feet above sea level. Present or in the immediate neighborhood were 28 saddle or pack horses, one unsupervised foal, and fourteen trail riders who had ridden and fished along the Kootenay from the Crossing to the river's unnamed source in Warfield Basin, and had landed on the plateau beside Tumbling Glacier at the head of the Wolverine Pass when the weather called a halt. Then it was that the idea came to Mr. Gibbon to suggest the Order of the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies.

The party had come up the Wolverine Pass because H. B. Clow, president of Rand McNally and Company, map makers of Chicago, had proclaimed it the most wonderful Alpine trail he had ever ridden. The pass breaks through a sheer wall of rock, running forty miles north and south, and rising from one to six thousand feet from its base, with ice fields such as the Wahmawapta dripping over the crest, or worn out here and there into glacial cirques such as the head of Hell Roaring, Fine and Serre Creeks. The turreted head of Goodsir, the top-most crown of which is 11,675 feet high, rises in a spectacular climax to the northern end of this mighty cliff. Along the Palisades toward Helmet Creek and Goodsir one can trot or gallop along the springy turf of Alpine prairies for miles without a let-up.

The idea found welcome among other trail riders to whom it was suggested, and with the generous co-operation of Mr. Clow, who at one time had his whole force of twenty map-makers at work, the various government maps of the National Parks were co-ordinated and supplemented so as to show all trails known to representative guides.

The spirit of the Order of Trail Riders was expressed in Article 3 of the constitution and by-laws. It was "a reverence for the majesty and beauty of nature." In accordance with this spirit the Yoho Valley was chosen for the first Pow Wow of the Order on account of its accessibility as well as for its majestic beauty, and with the co-operation of the Canadian Pacific Railway the accommodation at the Sun Dance Lodge. Accommodation was thus provided for 150 people, but so great was the interest in the Pow Wow that no fewer than 207 were counted in the Sun Dance Lodge at the inauguration. This 207 did not include a bear which stole a half a sheep from one of the tents.

To mark so notable an occasion, a bronze plaque had been prepared of Tom Wilson, discoverer of Lake Louise and one of the old-time guides still to be seen around the Chateau. Tom was present at its unveiling.

Since that time, every year has seen two or more official trail rides in the Canadian Rockies. Famous Empire statesmen have taken part in them, and prominent men from all over the world. The rides are set to the ability of those taking part in them. For the novice there are four or five-day trips; for the experienced Trail Rider they may last as long as twelve days and cover hundreds of miles. Scenery is taken in that can be viewed in no other way, and sometimes it is virgin territory never or very rarely seen by white men, that is covered. Every couple of months or so a Bulletin is issued and the latest, issued in January, 1930, is numbered 72. Full descriptive matter is contained in these bulletins and at the back of each is a list of Trail Riders to date. The organization is unique on this continent and offers opportunities of getting into close touch with nature that are unrivaled. One trip is the experience of a lifetime and there are few who have taken one who do not strain every nerve to repeat it.

Einstein Declares Space Eats Matter

(By Howard W. Blakelee, Associated Press Science Editor.)

New York. — Einstein's announcement in London that "space is eating up matter" is another break into a new field of investigation, one not so incomprehensible as it sounds. He has found another method of measuring space of a particular kind, the tangible space in which man lives, which is not empty, but is known to be filled with gravitation, light, electrical forces, possibly with "ether," and perhaps other unknowns. Einstein's figures have shown for some time that space has these properties may be limited in extent.

His theories do not say what is outside the kind of light-electricity-gravitation-filled space that telescopes can see and human brains figure mathematically. His theories do not deny the common sense of imagination, which thinks of space as going on forever. They simply postulate that the kind of space visible either to the eye or imagination is probably not only limited, but likely in the end to prove different from what is expected.

The size of this Einstein "space," provided it exists, has been computed by astronomers. They have been able to figure the weight of all the stars and matter in sight of telescopes, and from these weights to derive the size.

Outer Edge of Space
They found that the outer edge of this "space" is about 600 times as far as the present limit of vision in telescopes, which can now see the distance travelled by light in 140,000,000 or 150,000,000 years.
Einstein also holds that this space is curved, which means that, owing to some still unsolved property, space is able to bend light, and make it travel in a circle, like circumnavigating the earth. So mathematicians have figured that light would travel completely around this Einstein space in 500,000 million light years. That is, after that long lapse we ought to be able to look in the opposite direction in the sky from our sun, and, if our telescopes are powerful enough, to see the sun's rays coming faintly from the other way around.

Others Agree
Einstein is not alone in these daring ideas. Eddington, English astronomer, has suggested that time itself may be different in some other part of space. He speaks of the arrow of time pointing in a different direction, as if somewhere things were growing younger.

Millikan's cosmic rays, which are not theories, but concrete, measurable radiation that pours down upon earth from all directions in space, are another illustration of something almost inconceivable happening in space. No one knows their source for certain. Millikan says they probably come from the creation of matter in the intense cold of interstellar space. This space between the stars is the most completely empty region man has been able to imagine, and the one least likely to be picked as the home of vast forces capable of creating solid substance.

What New York Is Wearing

Illustrated Dressmaking Lesson Furnished With Every Pattern

A precious frock for wee maids of 1, 2, 4 and 6 years is pictured in pale pink batiste.

It is strikingly smart and yet as simple as can be. The cartwheel ruffle trimming is amusing. This ruffling of self-fabric has pleated edge. It is sewed to the dress following perforations for same. Style No. 3485 makes up beautifully in tulle for parties. Georgette crepe and tulle de Chine are very dainty. Sprigged dimity, printed lawn, sheer linen, organdie and voile also appropriate.

It may also be made of checked gingham without the cartwheel trimming.

The Road-Mender To Heaven

By Anne Sutherland

I wouldn't be an Emperor, I wouldn't be a King. I wouldn't change the job I have for gold or anything.

And yet from early morning till the sleepy sun goes down I only tend the little road that leads to Heaven-Town.

I help to keep it shining and I help to keep it sweet. I brush away the dusty sins that clutter round my feet. I send out birds of laughter and they fill the morning skies. I bind my wings of damaged dreams like broken butterflies; I plant a seed of kindness, then I hide behind a tree.

And pretty soon a friendship-flower grows and blooms for me: I dig out little falsehoods and I throw them in a heap. And here a splendid bonfire; then I try to watch and keep. The worn-down places in the road all neatly patched with some Good brand of gift; and when with harp and psalm the pilgrims come.

They ask me, "Little brother, we be weary with our sin, Oh tell us, doth the Warder wait to let a traveller in? Who longs for Heaven comfort?" And I point them straight ahead. "No heart goes up to Heaven-Town that is not comforted."

I answer, and they ride away, and softly down the night. The friendly lamps of Heaven-Street are guiding them aright. Then give to Kings and Emperors their crowns! I envy none. When Master comes to praise me for the bit of work I've done: I dare not raise my eyes, but I be proud to hear Him say, "God bless thee, little brother, for a spotless road this day!"

—The New Outlook.

Wills Made By Talkies

The newest use of talking motion pictures, it was stated by Mr. O. H. Caldwell, Editor of the new magazine Electronics, at the recent conference on lighting at the Westinghouse Lighting Institute in New York City, is for making wills. In recent instances, Mr. Caldwell stated, instead of writing an ordinary will which is then acknowledged before witnesses, the testator called in a motion picture operator and camera, spoke his desires before the camera and microphone and had both his face and his voice photographed on the film. The witnesses next appear before the camera, state that they have heard the will made and witness it.

Child Saving

Mr. Kelso Talks Encouragingly to Members of the Children's Aid Association

At the annual meeting of the Children's Aid Association of Ontario held last month in the Parliament Buildings, Mr. J. J. Kelso, Supt., gave an address in which he said: "You are engaged in a great work. Indeed, I know of no other more important than the protection of children, the building up of the house and the preservation of all that is best and sweetest in family life."

"No movement is more popular at the present time because of the realization that a better and happier civilization can only be evolved from a healthy and well-developed childhood; that here is the solution of many of our most vexing problems."

Preserving the Family
"The family welfare is fundamental to social progress—the basic principle in all child protection work. Therefore the home is our chief concern. When disputes and differences arise adjustments have to be made that require much time, and thought and the best that each of us can give. To restore order and harmony gives a comfort and satisfaction that is in itself ample reward."

Problem Children
"Among others, we have constantly before us the problem of the handicapped child, the defective, the precocious delinquent, the homeless child, the deserting father, the weak-minded, the thriftless people who bring children into the world without the means or ability to maintain and train them. There is in fact no end to the variety of social ills that call for patient, expert consideration and this I know is also present in your minds."

"You have a heavy and responsible task. All I can say to you is to keep on doing what you honestly believe is best for the child. Aim at greater efficiency and the enlistment of new workers in this great service. Do not attempt to do it all yourself for that is impossible. Hold frequent conferences with other social workers so that there may be the fullest co-operation."

Secure Friendly Aid

"Volunteer workers can be secured in every community who would give valuable assistance. Do not neglect this asset for there are splendid people who could guide and counsel with boys and girls and perhaps prove an anchor to them when the storms of temptation arise. What many of our workers and people in trouble generally, need above all things is a sympathetic friend to whom they can turn with confidence. Waywardness in children is not real badness—it is often loneliness, lack of affection, occupation and ambition—the need for some inspiring influence outside themselves. Surely competent volunteers can be found to meet this great need."

BLOOM STILL ON

"Eliza," said a friend of the family to the old colored washer-woman, "have you seen Miss Edith's fiance?" "No, ma'am," she answered, "it ain't been in the wash yet."

Scotsman Declares Instalment Plan Is Not Thrifty

"There are two applications of the hire-purchase plan which are sound," comments the Scotsman. "The man who buys his house on instalments is putting his money into a durable asset, and he will derive both pleasure and satisfaction from the sense of ownership, even though, on a strict computation of profit and loss, it may not be a paying proposition to own one's house."

"Similarly the man who buys a life insurance policy by paying annual premiums is making a good investment. If he cannot keep up the annual payment; he has still a marketable asset, for the insurance company will always give him the surrender value of his policy. But when we get into the region of perishable commodities, the economics and ethics of hire-purchase become a little more involved."

"It has been represented that hire-purchase is thrifty. It is, of course, nothing of the kind. Thrift represents deferred enjoyment; hire-purchase is immediate enjoyment. Hire-purchase is not thrifty, but spending, and it is spending on the basis of an income that has not been earned, and may never be earned."

"Hire-purchase makes no more money available for the purchase of commercial commodities. It merely ante-dates purchases, and, as the hire-purchase system is much more likely to be used in times of prosperity than in times of depression, it can be of little or no help to overcome trade stagnation."

There will be many, of course, who look upon hire-purchase as a means of thrift, a principle which is not affected by its general influence on trade.

Mrs. Kipling Praises Guild

Montreal.—The elegant designs and exquisite craftsmanship of the examples of Canadian art seen in the Canadian Handicrafts Guild Shop here were extolled by Mrs. Rudyard Kipling on her visit there recently. Mrs. Kipling, who arrived in Montreal from Bermuda with her husband, is an active member of the Guild's Extension Committee in England.

The Indian baskets, which are quickly ornamented with cedar root and porcupine quills, had been especially admired by Mrs. Kipling, who also praised the woven articles from Vancouver Island, the beautiful colors of the homespun, and the attractive designs of the hook rugs.

"I am amazed," she said, "at the marvelous progress which the guild has made since was last here. The rapid increase in the number of the guild's branches astonished Mrs. Kipling, who expressed the hope that, as time went on, all the country districts of the Dominion would be included in the Guild's activities."

Friendliness

Just a cheery word or two Changes skies of grey to blue, Just a glad hello that's sung To the neighbors old and young, Sends them on their busy way Happier for all the day.

Just the waving of a hand—Something all can understand—Carries with it something real Which a troubled heart can feel,
More than words perhaps could say To the friend across the way.

Every living mortal knows Who are friends and who are foes, He can read it in the eye.
Of the distant passer-by.
Though they travel far apart,
He can feel it in his heart.

He can tell it by the way You salute him day by day;
From the waving of your hand He can read and understand, And your friendliness he'll know—From the way you say "Hello!"

—The "Opticalist."

Human Oyster

A young officer, some on leave from India, had been entertained by his friends, not wisely, but too well. When he arrived home he was anxious to save his mother—who had always thought he was a teetotaler—from seeing him in his present condition, so he tried to find a place where he could hide without fear of being discovered until the morning.

Finally he curled himself into a ball in a hip-bath and somehow managed skillfully to balance another hip-bath on the top.

Later, however, his mother, not having heard her son return home, proceeded to investigate, and at last came upon the two hip-baths.

"Are you there, dear?" she gasped in astonishment.

"Sh—sh!" said a voice in an undertone, as a head peeped through from between the two baths. "Not a word!"

This flavour will please you more than any other

Gum-Dipped Cords Stand the Acid Test

Even though Firestone cords are of superior strength and elasticity before they are built into Firestone Tires, they go through the Gum-Dipping process for added strength and endurance.

Gum-Dipping—exclusive to Firestone Tires —saturates and insulates every fibre of every cord in the tire. This prevents the cords from chafing against each other and eliminates internal friction and heat—the greatest enemy to tire life.

Thus Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires have double reasons for their toughness, ruggedness and unequalled mileage—by actual test they hold all world's records for mileage and endurance! Specify Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires on your car. See your nearest Firestone Dealer today.

Canadians Not Anxious to Take Credit Opportunities Offered

Toronto.—Merchants in Canada, on the whole, are more anxious to extend credit than the public is to accept it, said Fred C. Hamilton, public relations counsel of the National Retail Credit Association, in describing the apathy of the Canadian public to credit purchasing here recently.
The Association's perpetual delinquent debt in the United States is $15,000,000,000, said Mr. Hamilton. "This costs merchants millions every year to carry. Canadian merchants are on the whole, slowly and reluctantly imitative of our credit selling methods." Check raising is North America's fastest growing crime, declared R. Purcell, New York City, who illustrated his statement with a display of $1,000,000 worth of bad cheques. He estimated the loss from raised cheques at from one hundred to three hundred million dollars a year.

R-100 Will Leave For Canada July 31?

Canadian Government Requests Postponement of Flight Until After
Election

London.—It was officially stated recently that at the request of the Canadian Government the flight of the R-100 to Canada will not take place before July 31. In explanation of the cables reporting Lord Thomson to have announced that the R-101 would be leaving for Canada about the middle of the month carrying with it a number of members of Parliament it was pointed out that the trip arranged for parliamentarians will be just local "joy-rides." It is not contemplated extending them to a trans-Atlantic attempt. Either the R-100 or the R-101 might be utilized for these trips.

At present the R-100 is in the hands of the Airships Guarantee Company for such repairs and alterations as are required. The R-100 is covered under a contractor's guarantee clause.
When test flights are being made she is turned over to the Air Ministry for these since the ministry has an air personnel while the company is purely engaged in production. Then, if further repairs or alterations are necessary, the ship is again technically returned to the hands of the construction company for the work. Repairs and alterations to the R-100 will be completed within a few days.
Whether and when members of Parliament will get their trip rests entirely on weather conditions. In the case of the R-101 some time ago members were actually at the mast ready to embark when the trip was cancelled owing to stormy weather.

Addition of 500 Miles To Antarctic Coast

Australian Explorer Raises British Flag and Claims Islands

Adelaide, S. Aust.—After spending five months amid the ice floes of the Antarctic and adding some 500 miles to the known Antarctic coast line, Sir Douglas Mawson, Australian explorer, and his party recently arrived back in Adelaide in the trim little Discovery.
On several small islands the flag was raised and a declaration left to the effect that they had been claimed by the expedition on behalf of the British Empire. On one occasion the plane carried by the party ascended 5000 feet and saw a chain of rocky mountains, which were named Mac-Robertson Land in recognition of the $50,000 donation supplied to the expedition by Mr. MacRobertson, the "confectionery king" of Australia.

The Discovery was given a hearty welcome on its return here, the Governor-General, Lord Stonehaven, flying over from the Canberra for the reception, which was attended by the leading representatives in every branch of activity in the Commonwealth.

The Discovery left in October for her base, Cape Town, carrying a crew of 40 all told, with Sir Douglas Maw-son, hero of several expeditions to the ice, in command. Capt. John K.
Davis, who took Shackleton and Maw-son on their polar trips, was at the helm. Prof. Harvey Johnston, biologist at the Adelaide University, being in charge of the natural science work.
Capt. Frank Hurley, veteran explorer, being photographer and cinematographer, and Commander Martin Moyes leader of the survey branch.

Coronation of Carol To Be Impressive

Bucharest.—Now that Carol II. has swept all obstacles from his path to a full and valid kingship of Roumania, he has made plans for an impressive coronation that will be the last triumph in the journey of an exile to a throne.

The coronation will be the last and most brilliant event in the series of starting developments. It will be held at Alba Iulia, where the late King Ferdinand was crowned, and has been set for October. It is believed likely that October 11 will be the date for it was on that day in 1914 that his father, King Ferdinand I, became monarch of the Balkan kingdom.

King Carol intends to invite all the crowned and presidents of Rouma-nia's old war allies to the impressive event. He recently employed General Averescu, an outstanding soldier who clung to him in a cabinet recently, a Professor Nicholas Jorga, his boyhood tutor and friend, to deliver thronifications personally.

Opening of Canal September First

Will Be Principal Link in Great Chain of Waterways

The new Welland Ship Canal, which is to be opened to traffic on September 1 next, is one of the principal links in the great chain of navigation from the Strait of Belle Isle up the St. Lawrence River and through the Great Lakes to the western end of Lake Superior, a distance of 2,339 miles. In considering the historic and romantic background of this vital artery of Canada's trade for the past 100 years, the story of the Welland Canal may be said to recapitulate the important events in the Dominion's advance among the nations of the world. From time to time, in order to cope with the country's ever-increasing volume of trade, no fewer than three canals have been constructed across the Niagara peninsula of Ontario from Lake Erie to Lake Ontario previous to the present undertaking. The first of these was opened for traffic in 1829, the second in 1845, and the third in 1870.

Improvements to the 1870 canal, bringing its depth to 14 feet, and other measures, were effective until 1913, when it was realized that a new and much larger canal was an absolute necessity. Construction was delayed by the Great War, but such progress has been made in the last few years that on Dominion Day Canada will formally open one of the great canals of the world, and one distinguished by many unique features. The total length of the new canal is 27.7 miles between the outermost ends of approaches at Port Weller in Lake Ontario and those at Port Colborne in Lake Erie. For all practical purposes it is a straight line throughout, and the difference in level between Lake Ontario and Lake Erie (326½ feet) is overcome by seven locks of 46½ feet length, and a guard lock. The usable length of these locks is 829 feet, the usable width 50 feet, with 39 feet of water on the sills.

Other Interesting Features

There are many other interesting features in the new canal, which crosses the old canal at several points and coincides with it at others, all to the advantage of the new. For instance, from Welland to Humberstone, the old and new canals coincide, but just north of Humberstone the new canal leaves the old one to continue a straight alignment into the harbour at Port Colborne, and thus eliminates a sharp curve in the old canal known as Ramey's Bend. Again, by keeping the summit level from Port Colborne, Lake Erie, to Thorold at a regulated height by means of a guard lock, vessels can be passed into the canal without delay from a constantly fluctuating level of Lake Erie.
This is entirely new, and effects a vast improvement in navigation.

The Wristkerchief

What is being featured at smart shops as a "wristkerchief," introduces a kerchief of a new shape, obviously intended to be worn as an ornament rather than carried for any practical use. The novelty of this accessory consists in its being narrowed at endpoints and elongated. At the there is an embroidered design, a through which the wristchief is slipped after having been looped around the wrist. This adjustment allows the wristkerchief to hang in flowing fashion and still be perfectly secure.
This model is not confined to airy fabrics such as chiffon georgette and not but comes in substantial silk crepe and past-toned handkerchief linen for sportswear. Hand-blocked corner designs, initials or monograms are a favorite forms of decoration for sports use the more elaborate models, or evening, being edged with finely plaited chiffon, lace applique, net footings and other decorative borders.

Dresden—Last Lying Place of Uncle Tom

Toronto.—The weed-covered monument over the grave at Dresden of Rev. Josiah Henson, the original of Harriet Beecher Stowe's immortal "Uncle Tom," has been discovered by Government weed inspectors. It was stated recently at the Provincial Department of Highways. This relic of the past will be marked in some suitable manner for the benefit of American tourists and students of history.

Rev. Josiah Henson was born July 5, 1789, and died May 5, 1883, at the age of 93 years, 10 months and 5 days, according to the inscription on the monument.

recent announcement from the state department.

The principal point of difference which delayed the two governments in a parcel post treaty has been the insistence of Cuba that manufactured tobacco shall be admitted for shipment into Canada. The Dominion yielded this point, the state department said.

Hoover's Attitude To Canada Enigma

Observers Watching Hint of Possible Action on Tariff

Washington, D.C.—Herbert Hoover has now been President of the United States for two years—half his term. Canadians here are asking, what is the attitude of the most enigmatic occupant of the White House toward the Dominion?

Well informed circles believe that he is opposed to the great increase in the tariff wall along the northern border provided for in the Hawley-Smoot Bill. It is said that after he signs the bill, he will at once use the flexible provision to reduce the more outstanding levies against Canadian exports. Inasmuch as most of the duties against Canadian goods bear upon agricultural products and inasmuch as he has declared himself for the assistance of agriculture in the United States, it is difficult to see how many reductions might be made.
The President's interest in the development of the St. Lawrence seaway is a matter of record. In an address delivered in the south he intimated his Government was awaiting action by "Our Canadian Friends."

Drive With Your Mind as well as your hands

If you will keep your mind on your driving, you will always be alert to meet and anticipate danger.

Be ready always for fault or error on the part of other drivers.
You cannot do this unless you have both hands on the wheel, both eyes on the road, and your mind on your driving.

Be CAREFUL. Keep a margin of safety between yourself and danger. Be COURTEOUS . . . give the other driver more than his rights. Use your COMMON SENSE in deciding where, how, and at what speed you will drive your car.
